It is was useful to make a detailed report at all it was useful to put in the dates. It is impossible that anybody but those making these exhibits can tell anything about the transactions described in them, except from data is described in them, except from data is the found nowhere but on the books of those gentlemen. We do not, however, dwell upon this feature of the report as of great moment in the present case. We have entire confidence, and we believe the public have, that the gentlemen entrusted with the matters to which it relates will faithfully account for every dollar that has come or may come to their hands. We refer to it more as a precedent that ought not to be set, because in some hands such a line of practice might result in great injury to the city. The agent cannot be greater than the principal; and those who fill the city treasury have the absolute right to all desirable information in regard to the application of its funds. It must always be a dangerous line of policy which ignores the public in the transaction of its own fiscal business and which assumes that agents will be as honest when they are not accountable as the repersonal type of the contry. They are naturally follows the the tenter of the country. They are naturally follows the theterore not to be frusted. They do and the treatment of the city that the repellions and which at large the definition of the critical reader; and that it is, the very large sums of money shown it is given, and that they looked upon as showing the temper of the greatment of the city.

There is, however, a point in this exhibit which cannot have escaped the attention of the critical reader; and that is, the very large sums of money shown tention of the critical reader; and that is, the very large sums of money shown to be "on hand" on the first day of last January. One of these was "balance on hand in guaranteed coupon account"— which means, as we understand, morphism that is a grand round of the same tyle of exasperating or activities the southern heart' before the rebellion, and which at last fired the Northern heart also. There is great dauger that both may be fired again— and the worst enemy to the South could hardly desire a worse fate to befal that paper country.

January, One of these was "balance on hand in guaranteed copon account."

and the worst enemy to the South could hardly desire a worse fate to be fat that which means, as we understand, moneys act apart exclusively for payment of interest on the guaranteed debt of the city. In view of this does it not seem very shighlar that when last January to the Southern every shighlar that when last January to the Southern every shighlar that when last January to the Southern every shows seventy thousand dollars of this interest became due to the United State of the Caravary Department, and when during the renaulty of the terrangulility and prospecting the casuary Department, and when during the renaulty of the more seed that the same of the commissioners had $77,000 or 1 applied, instead of converting the realizones of the cases of the payment of that class of claims, why was not $70,000 of it applied, instead of converting the realizones of the same proposed in the same proposed in the same proposed in the case upon at all. What is said and done is not condemnate the same pose of the said and done is not condemnated the same proposed in the same proposed in the first day of its papiled, instead of converting the realizones of the same proposed in the same pro they are outrageously wrong. Som months ago a number of the forms military officers of the rebellion too occasion to make public and applied of interest-bearing debt, the city suffers a clear loss of at least the interest.

But this is not quite all. By an inspection of the sinking fund exhibit, we find there have been large idle balances ever since 1859. Comparing the receipts and expenditures year by year (the years being given in this case), we find that on the 1st of January, 1860, there was an unapplied balance "on hand" of $11,030,12; on the 1st of January 1st.

But this is not quite all. By an inspection to make public and emphatic declarations, to the effect that having been beaten in their effort to disunite the country, they would never more engage in politics, but confine them selves entirely to their business pursuits. It would have been well if they had all been of that way of thinking, and if those who made such promises had kept them, and would be better if the Southern people would now insist on keeping them all in the background.

assuming the money could have been used to redeem the debt only at par, when in truth it might have been done at much less.

We make no pretension at all to skill in matters of finance. It may be that in the skillful financiers at the head of city affairs can show that in all this we rein error. For the sake of the city treasury we trust they can; but to the unfinancial mind, we must maintain that it looks like some bad financiering (bad for the city) has been done here in the last eight years.

The Pole-Raising at Falton.

Hon. C. D. Hubbard, who has returned from a brief jaunt into New in good to send out a good crowd to speak at Fallon to morrow afternoon, Wheeling ought to send out a good crowd to see the Fallon Republicans raise their pole—not help them, for they intend to show the Democracy there are enough of them to do it without help. Mr. Hubbard is doubtless prepared to make a good speech. We hope he may have a good crowd to speak to.
